CULTURAL AND NATURAL HERITAGE

WORLD HERITAGE COMMITTEE

Twenty-fifth session

Helsinki, Finland
11-16 December 2001

Item 3 of the Provisional Agenda: Report of the Secretary on activities undertaken by the Secretariat since the twenty-fourth session of the World Heritage Committee

SUMMARY

This report includes the Powerpoint presentation given by the Director of the World Heritage Centre to the twenty-fifth session of the Committee in Helsinki on 11 December 2001.

The presentation includes a general view of the activities undertaken by the World Heritage Centre since the last Committee meeting in Cairns (Australia) in December 2000. The Report cross-references to the Working and Information documents (WHC-01/CONF.208/1 to 24 and WHC-01/CONF.208/INF.1 to INF.19). These documents have been made available electronically and distributed to Members of the Committee. The documents will also be available on the public web site at whc.unesco.org/req1.asp following the session.

Three annexes are attached:

- I 30 YEARS OF THE WORLD HERITAGE CONVENTION
- II THE VIRTUAL CONGRESS ON WORLD HERITAGE MANAGEMENT
- III CONFERENCE ON 30 YEARS OF THE WORLD HERITAGE CONVENTION (14-16 November 2002)

I. Introduction

This Report summarizes the main actions, achievements and on-going activities of the UNESCO World Heritage Centre, the Secretariat of the World Heritage Committee.

2001 has been an extremely intensive year in the life of the World Heritage Convention, as several important reforms affecting all sections of the activity have been decided and gradually implemented.

This period has brought a number of important changes in the role, organization and activities of the Secretariat, as World Heritage establishes its role as a UNESCO "Flagship Programme".

These changes have imposed a remarkable load on the work of the Secretariat, while traditional problems of staffing, space and equipment have found only a partial solution.

In presenting to the Committee the activity report for the year 2001, I would like to commend the staff of the World Heritage Centre for the great dedication and professional quality of the work they have been able to complete – it has been for me a privilege to work with them in this first year of my directorship.

In the years to come, the World Heritage Convention will face some very important challenges. I would like to summarize them as follows:

- strengthening the legal tools to ensure conservation of heritage at risk of destruction
- achieving a more representative World Heritage List and promoting the identification of World Heritage in the different regions
- reinforcing its authority in the world of natural and cultural conservation, by defining and ensuring adequate standards for World Heritage
- giving more power to the International Assistance programmes, to foster capacity building for heritage management and prevent loss and destruction of heritage
- developing its outreach and educational activities to strengthen its links with the public and the younger generations.

These are not easy tasks, as the forces of conservation meet harder and harder challenges.

To cope with them, we need to strengthen the tools available to us, to reinforce the reach of the World Heritage Convention, to link more effectively with civil society.

In the year to come, the Secretariat will endeavour to follow the advice and guidance, and implement the decisions of the new World Heritage Committee.

30 YEARS OF THE WORLD HERITAGE CONVENTION

Preliminary Program of Events for 2002

The General Conference of UNESCO adopted the Convention concerning the protection of the world cultural and natural heritage at its seventeenth session in Paris on the 16th of November 1972.

The 30th anniversary of the Convention is an ideal opportunity for the world community involved in cultural and natural heritage conservation to reflect on achievements to date, and to review the main issues, constraints and opportunities in the implementation of the World Heritage Convention.

At the same time, the 30th anniversary provides an opportunity to further promote World Heritage conservation partnerships between governmental, non-governmental and private institutions, and to foster mobilisation of the public on world heritage conservation.

UNESCO has decided to promote and support events and initiatives aimed to assess the results of its action in the area of international legal protection of cultural and natural heritage, look at the future developments and challenges, foster new international partnerships for conservation, and extend public information on issues related to conservation.

Public and private institutions are invited to cooperate in this effort, by taking a role in the organisation of the planned events, and by proposing and organising new ones in their own countries.

In addition to events directly related to the World Heritage Convention, a number of international events related to cultural and natural heritage conservation will take place in 2002 in different parts of the world. UNESCO plans to participate in these events and to use these opportunities to further enhance the support for its action.

Twenty-sixth session of the World Heritage Committee, June 2002

The twenty-sixth session of the World Heritage Committee in Budapest in June 2002 constitutes an unique opportunity to celebrate the 30th Anniversary of the Convention. As this session of the Committee corresponds with a change of the calendar of meetings, only a limited number of nominations will be considered and no periodic reporting document will be presented.

This will allow a considerable amount of time to discuss the strategic directions of the Convention. In particular, sessions could be dedicated to the following topics:

- Partnerships for World Heritage Conservation;
- International Assistance programmes ;
- A Charter of the World Heritage Convention;
- New categories of World Heritage sites;
- Training and education for World Heritage;
- Monitoring of World Heritage sites;
- World Heritage and the information society;

A number of special events could be organised by the hosting country to attract the international media and to consolidate partnerships.

The Committee could issue a Declaration assessing the results of the World Heritage Convention and projecting it into the next decade. The Budapest Declaration would constitute an Agenda for action of the Committee and the secretariat in the coming years.

THE VIRTUAL CONGRESS ON WORLD HERITAGE MANAGEMENT

In co-operation with the ISRSP (International Society for Remote Sensing and Photogrammetry – network of companies, research institutions, professionals), and the VSMM (Virtual System Multimedia – network of universities and research institutes for new technologies, with a focal point in Gifu, Japan), this project will organize an internet-based global conference on World Heritage conservation, supported by a limited number of regional seminars on the same day in October 2002, in commemoration of the 30th anniversary of the World Heritage Convention.

Through a “call for projects” to be launched via the VSMM and ISRSP networks, over 50 projects on new technology application for archaeological, architectural & urban conservation, natural properties conservation in World Heritage sites will be gathered. New information technology (NIT) which can facilitate the visualization of the values of natural and cultural properties and of conservation skills and methods, has proven to be an excellent tool in the didactic presentation of conservation objectives.

Objectives:

1. Test NIT application for environmental protection and management;
2. Discuss new information technology for sustainable development ;
3. Support broader access to information technology ;
4. Promote more scientific rigour in the application of new technologies in the presentation of cultural and natural sites

Expected Outputs:

Outputs would include some 50 websites/CD-roms of virtual reality, Geographical Information System (GIS) and remote-sensing applications on World Heritage sites.

Participants:

Minimum of 120 persons will participate in the regional seminars and an estimated 2 million persons will visit the website of the Virtual Congress.

CONFERENCE ON 30 YEARS OF THE WORLD HERITAGE CONVENTION
(14-16 November 2002)

UNESCO and the Government of Italy are promoting an International Congress of experts on the World Heritage Convention, scheduled to take place in Venice from 14-16 November 2002. The Conference will provide a forum for government officials, experts, site managers, foundations and donors to build on past experience and discuss opportunities in fostering partnerships to ensure long-term conservation of natural and cultural heritage.

The organization of the Conference will be handled by the World Heritage Centre, as UNESCO's focal point, in collaboration with UNESCO's Venice ROSTE, the City of Venice and the Veneto Region. In addition, the Advisory Bodies of the World Heritage Committee (ICOMOS, IUCN, ICCROM) and many public and private, regional and national heritage institutions will be associated with the organisation of the Congress.

OBJECTIVES:

The aims of the Conference are:

- 1] To assess the successes and limitations of the World Heritage Convention, with specific reference to its major objective, the protection of outstanding cultural and natural heritage worldwide. The Conference and its thematic workshops will be the opportunity to evaluate the relationship between the different international legal tools for cultural and natural conservation and to discuss the link between conservation and social and economic development.
- 2] To foster partnerships for World Heritage conservation between governmental and non-governmental organisations. In particular, partnerships with local and regional governments, private foundations and enterprises, NGOs and universities will be discussed and promoted.
- 3] To involve the international media and to disseminate information on World Heritage conservation. The Conference will be an opportunity to launch specific initiatives and partnerships in the area of public information and communication.

PRELIMINARY PROGRAMME:

- World Heritage and Tourism

RELATED 2002 EVENTS

In 2002, a number of related events will take place in different part of the world. Although these events will not all be specifically dedicated to the conservation of World Heritage, they will provide further opportunities to refer to the role of the Convention and discuss some of the issues at stake.

- ICOMOS General Assembly, October 2002, Zimbabwe
- The politics of World Heritage, University of North London, 3-4 September 2002
- Meeting of the UNESCO German National Commission “the 30th Anniversary of the World Heritage Convention”, 6-7 June 2002
