5E: World Heritage Tourism Programme

SUMMARY

This Document presents the new and inclusive World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme as requested by the World Heritage Committee at its 34th session Decision 34 COM 5F.2 (Brasilia, 2010). The proposed Programme reflects an extensive stakeholder consultation process. A Draft Action Plan has been developed in the Annex to the present document.

Draft Decision: 36 COM 5E, See Point II.

I. WORLD HERITAGE TOURISM PROGRAMME

A. Background

1. The work undertaken to develop the World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme responds to the Decision 34 COM 5F.2 of the World Heritage Committee at its 34th session in Brasilia in 2010, which “requests the World Heritage Centre to convene a new and inclusive programme on World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism, with a steering group comprising interested States Parties and other relevant stakeholders, and also requests the World Heritage Centre to outline the objectives and approach to the implementation of this programme”.
2. The Steering Group comprised of States Parties representatives from the six UNESCO Electoral Groups (Germany (I), Slovenia (II), Argentina (III), China (IV), Tanzania (Va), and Lebanon (Vb)), the Director of the World Heritage Centre, the Advisory Bodies (IUCN, ICOMOS and ICCROM), the United Nations World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) and the Swiss Government as the donor agency.
3. The Government of Switzerland provided financial support for specific actions undertaken by the Steering Group. To coordinate and support the process, the World Heritage Centre formed a small Working Group with the support of the Nordic World Heritage Foundation and the Government of Switzerland assisted by a mandated external consulting firm from New Zealand.
4. The World Heritage Committee directed that the Programme take into account:
 - a) the recommendations of the evaluation of the concluded tourism programme (WHC-10/34.COM/INF.5F.3)
 - b) the policy orientation which defines the relationship between World Heritage and sustainable tourism that emerged from the workshop Advancing Sustainable Tourism at Natural and Cultural Heritage Sites (Mogao, China, September 2009) (WHC-10/34.COM/INF.5F.1)
5. Overarching and strategic processes that the new World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme aligns with include the Strategic Objectives of the World Heritage Convention (Budapest Declaration 2002), the Reflections on the Future of the World Heritage Convention (WHC-11/35.COM/12A) and the Strategic Action Plan for the Implementation of the World Heritage Convention 2012-2022 (WHC-11/18.GA/11), the Relationship between the World Heritage Convention and Sustainable Development (WHC-10/34.COM/5D), the World Heritage Capacity Building Strategy (WHC-10/34.COM/5D), the Global Strategy for a Representative, Balanced and Credible World Heritage List (1994), and the Evaluation of the Global Strategy and PACT initiative (WHC-11/18.GA/8 - 2011).
6. The programme development process was enriched by an outreach to representatives from the main stakeholder groups including the tourism sector, national and local governments, property managers/coordinators and local communities. The programme was further developed at an Expert Meeting in Sils/Engadine, Switzerland October 2011. In this meeting over 40 experts from 23 countries, representing the relevant stakeholder groups, worked together to identify the overall strategic approach and a prioritised set of key objectives and activities. The draft Programme was sent to States Parties for their consultation during February – March 2012.

B. Context

7. If undertaken responsibly, tourism can be a driver for preservation and conservation of cultural and natural heritage and a vehicle for sustainable development¹. But if unplanned or not properly managed, tourism can be socially, culturally and economically disruptive, and have a devastating effect on fragile environments and local communities.
8. The overarching goal of the World Heritage Convention is the protection of cultural and natural properties of Outstanding Universal Value (OUV). This cultural and natural heritage in turn represents resources for economic activities such as tourism and the accrual of benefits for the local communities living in proximity to or associated with the World Heritage property. Therefore, in order to achieve long-term economic, environmental and social sustainability, heritage values and associated assets - tangible and intangible - should be considered by State Parties as significant cultural capital which needs to be preserved and maintained through appropriate and responsible tourism in order to fulfil the ultimate responsibility set out by the World Heritage Convention.
9. In addition to the nomination and inscription of heritage properties to the World Heritage List, there are also the more technical challenges of monitoring and measuring impacts from tourism and using this to set parameters for property planning, development and management.
10. However, whilst at a high level UNESCO and the World Heritage Convention are widely recognised, the concept and significance of the OUV of World Heritage properties is less well understood. Making tourism stakeholders aware of and appreciate the heritage values is key to presenting the World Heritage properties. There is a need to communicate these values in a way that is readily understood and explains its significance within a local, national and international context. An informed appreciation of OUV and the implications of potential adverse impacts through tourism on heritage values are essential to decision-making by a broad range of tourism stakeholders including:
 - a) States Parties wishing to establish and implement policies and strategies to realise development objectives and long-term benefits for local and other communities;
 - b) The tourism industry wanting to realise long-term commercial profits;
 - c) Visitors seeking full appreciation of the World Heritage, guidance to appropriate behaviour, and a potential incentive to contribute towards their maintenance and protection;
 - d) Local communities seeking improved quality of life while maintaining the integrity of and access to their natural and cultural heritage representing their history and identity.
11. It is within this context that the World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme takes place and that an appropriate definition of World Heritage sustainable tourism is identified.

¹ The concept of 'sustainable development', as defined by the World Commission on Environment and Development in 'Our Common Future' (1987), will guide the overall Programme orientation. In these terms sustainable development is development that "meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs."

B.1 Opportunities and Challenges

12. World Heritage properties attract significant tourism interest and form important tourist destinations. They may represent key vehicles for economic development and as public goods provide value for everyone. However, the full and potential long-term value of tourism is not always realised for local communities or benefit the properties themselves. Inadequately managed tourism can have severe consequences compromising the OUV of the properties, depriving the local communities of benefits and potentially degrading the destination itself.
13. Opportunities:
 - a) The mechanisms of the World Heritage Convention provide incentives to place conservation of OUV at the centre of policy orientations and management systems;
 - b) Established networks and well-developed relationships exist representing powerful opportunities to influence policies and ensure property-level implementation;
 - c) A range of existing initiatives and strategies provide frameworks for support;
 - d) Opportunities exist for new partnerships and collaboration to use the World Heritage Convention to advocate for sustainable tourism and raise awareness amongst stakeholders;
 - e) The ability to engage at a decision-making level provides opportunities to support change at a national level;
 - f) The regional approach to monitoring and reporting within the context of the World Heritage Convention provides a platform for sharing of good practices in related contexts.
14. Challenges:
 - a) Failure to thoroughly analyze, comprehend and take into account longer term costs of damage to World Heritage due to lack of awareness of heritage values and the concept of OUV;
 - b) Policy formulation/development not adequately taking sustainability issues into account, and/or lacking support and consideration for local communities;
 - c) Institutional arrangements failing to fully support a sustainable destination management approach which is key to realising the full value from tourism and visitation;
 - d) Lack of ownership by local authorities and civil society;
 - e) Lack of capacity to implement measures for sustainable tourism in planning, development, management and administration;
 - f) Lack of understanding and consideration of the different stakeholder needs, and/or lack of dialogue between stakeholders;
 - g) Difficulties in changing the tourism model and economic approach once investment decisions are made may contribute to unsustainable tourism development;
 - h) The complexity of local systems, histories and competing values that challenge attempts to manage sustainable development;
 - i) The need for appropriate and context specific values based planning processes;
 - j) The political nature of all decision making processes.

B.2 A new paradigm

15. The new World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme will seek to contribute to a new paradigm that is guided by the World Heritage Convention and whereby the conservation, presentation and transmission of World Heritage properties is fully served by tourism and the potential opportunities and challenges are harnessed and mitigated for the purpose of sustainable development.
16. This new orientation is fully in line with the Reflections on the Future of the World Heritage Convention (WHC-11/35.COM/12A) and the theme of the 40th Anniversary of the Convention - 'Sustainable development and local communities'. Overall, this will require a clear vision, appropriate policies and frameworks, an open dialogue with the tourism sector (industry and government administration) and an emphasis on local community development.
17. While the previous World Heritage Tourism Programme focused on property specific projects, the new programme will take a holistic and strategic approach to World Heritage properties and destinations that will include bottom-up as well as top-down measures to ensure sustainability that reflects not only high-level goals but also local needs and the ability to attain these goals.

C. Vision and Mission

C.1 Vision

18. World Heritage and tourism stakeholders share responsibility for conservation of our common cultural and natural heritage of Outstanding Universal Value and for sustainable development through appropriate tourism management.

C.2 Mission

19. Facilitate the management and development of sustainable tourism at World Heritage properties through fostering increased awareness, capacity and balanced participation of all stakeholders in order to protect the properties and their Outstanding Universal Value whilst ensuring that tourism delivers benefits for conservation of the properties, sustainable development for local communities, as well as, a quality experience for visitors.
20. Key elements in realising the vision and mission:
 - a) An interpretation and implementation of the World Heritage Convention that embraces sustainable tourism;
 - b) National, regional and local governments have policies and frameworks that recognise sustainable tourism as an important vehicle for managing their cultural and natural heritage
 - c) All stakeholders are aware and committed to sustainable development, and have the capacity to manage tourism sustainably;
 - d) Local communities take pride in and have a sense of responsibility and empowerment towards the World Heritage properties and contribute to property conservation and the sustainable management of tourism at the World Heritage destinations;
 - e) The tourism sector values World Heritage and engages in its preservation while ensuring that its activities based at World Heritage properties are responsible, and support social and economic development;

- f) Visitors understand and gain an appreciation of the meaning of Outstanding Universal Value of World Heritage and adopt responsible behaviours.

D. Programme Methodology

21. The new World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme will create an international framework for the cooperative and coordinated achievement of shared and sustainable outcomes related to tourism at World Heritage properties. The Programme will take a strategic approach in its implementation, working in partnership with the key stakeholders (States Parties, property management/coordinators, tourism sector, destination management organisations and local communities) to achieve its objectives. Opportunities to create synergies and add value to existing initiatives will be part of the overall approach.
22. As resource constraints will limit its ability to operate at the World Heritage property level, the Programme will focus on leveraging existing initiatives, capabilities and resources, to facilitate the engagement between those stakeholders and institutions active in this area and able to provide financial and technical support.
23. The Programme will be coordinated through the World Heritage Centre and work extensively through UNESCO's regional and country offices in close collaboration with the Advisory Bodies and other UN Agencies, and with the support of the World Heritage related Category 2 centres. The Programme will furthermore work with existing regional bodies that represent World Heritage networks and information sharing mechanisms and platforms.
24. Monitoring of the Programme will be conducted according to the Results Based Programming, Management and Monitoring (RBM) approach as applied by UNESCO. The World Heritage Centre will report on the progress of the Programme implementation to the World Heritage Committee on a biennial basis.
25. The Programme methodology will feature:
- a) The use of the mechanisms of the Convention - The Operational Guidelines for the Implementation of the World Heritage Convention is the principle tool for establishing the procedures and working mechanisms of the Convention. The mechanisms of the Convention (the nomination process, Reactive Monitoring and Periodic Reporting etc.) represent opportunities for identifying cases where tourism may represent a threat to the heritage values (OUV) and where tourism is having a positive impact. One of the most significant opportunities lies in the strengthened analysis of the results from the existing monitoring and reporting exercises. The Programme will seek to strengthen the mechanisms of the Convention and their application in terms of World Heritage and tourism, and specifically identify good examples and lessons learned of interest and benefit to the broader World Heritage stakeholder community.
 - b) A focus on early intervention - For many World Heritage properties, established interests associated with tourism investments, markets and/or patterns may hamper change. Typically there are greater opportunities to institute sustainable management practices at an early stage, and preferably already in the nomination process and before inscription. An early stage intervention approach provides an opportunity for the Programme to promote sustainable tourism without excluding benefits to the already inscribed properties.
 - c) Strengthening the enabling environment - Having the right enabling environment that sets out policies, legislative and regulatory frameworks and development strategies is critical for the realisation of sustainable tourism at and around World Heritage properties. Implementation of these policies, frameworks and strategies often depends on having the adequate institutional arrangements and capacities.

The Programme will support the development of enabling environments that include:

- i) Overarching policy and strategy frameworks that address both heritage conservation and tourism planning in a balanced way;
 - ii) Appropriate regulatory frameworks that provide the necessary powers to manage tourism and related development within World Heritage properties and destinations;
 - iii) Clearly defined and accountable institutional arrangements concerning the allocation of responsibilities as well as processes facilitating the interactions between institutions and stakeholder groups, including the local communities;
 - iv) Funding mechanisms supporting appropriate management and investment projects, and providing appropriate incentives for stakeholders;
 - v) Control and management mechanisms that include continuous monitoring and evaluation based on indicators and targets.
- d) Co-operation and partnership with the tourism sector - The Programme will seek close alignment and open dialogue with the tourism sector and promote sustainable tourism at World Heritage destinations with focus on developing, promoting and providing quality products and services for the visitors as well as a contribution to the long-term viability and conservation of the World Heritage properties.

The alignment and cooperation with the tourism sector (tourism private sector and tourism promoters) will include identifying ways to:

- i) improve the inclusion and engagement of the sector in the tourism planning, development and management of properties
 - ii) increase the recognition of the sector through the monitoring and assessment facilitated through the mechanisms of the Convention
 - iii) generate, develop and share relevant information and good practices on World Heritage and sustainable tourism.
- e) A destination approach - A World Heritage destination is a geographical space in which the entire tourism experience takes place. For World Heritage destinations this encompasses the World Heritage property itself and the surrounding area. As World Heritage properties are primary drivers of tourism, to realise their full value requires a broader destination approach that reflects local conditions and needs. Efficient collaborative partnerships involving key stakeholders are needed to enhance a destination's sustainability. The Programme will therefore encompass ways of guiding destination development towards preservation of heritage values (OUV), acting as an impetus for interventions in favour of conservation and the enhancement of heritage values both within and outside the protected properties and to ensure that the tourism development does not compromise the value and potential contribution of World Heritage to sustainable development in the long term.

Destination planning must be preceded by an assessment of the capacity of the World Heritage property in terms of the number and kinds of visitors it can receive, as well as in terms of the related infrastructure it can accommodate. Adequate methodologies and tools must be developed for such assessments.

Central to this approach will be the planning for tourism development that involves and benefits the local communities. In planning for tourism at and around a World Heritage property, authorities, destination management organisations (DMOs) and to some extent property managers typically face many choices with respect to what approach to take. These choices can affect the sustainability of tourism, the extent to which it supports World Heritage conservation, and the extent to which it provides benefits to local communities and others. In addressing this objective the Programme will seek to support the development and implementation of tourism development plans that consider the destination as a whole and the heritage values that exist outside the World Heritage property. Key in this will be to create good quality experiences for visitors at World Heritage destinations which are based on sustainable tourism products and services that enable better understanding and appreciation of World Heritage values (OUV) and conservation of the tangible and intangible heritage at the destination.

- f) Capacity development - Realisation of the benefits of sustainable tourism depends in practice on a number of property management arrangements, many of which are property specific and can only be determined at that level. Addressing the challenges and taking advantage of the opportunities requires that property and destination managers have the appropriate capacities. Capacity development is therefore essential to realising many of the objectives of the Programme. The Programme will therefore seek to identify capacity building, training and education needs, raise awareness, develop and support learning and exchange platforms, as well as supplement and distribute tools and resources in relation to sustainable tourism. Capacity building activities of the Programme will be aligned with the World Heritage Capacity Building Strategy and will aim to benefit a range of stakeholders.

B. Explanation to the table:

8. Objectives

The Objectives represent the overarching goals of the Programme (WHC-12/36.COM/5E). While the Objectives carry equal importance, actions necessary to integrate sustainable tourism into the mechanisms of the Convention will be prioritised in the first phase of the Programme.

Objective A: Integrate sustainable tourism principles into the mechanisms of the World Heritage Convention.

Objective B: Strengthen the enabling environment by advocating policies and frameworks that support sustainable tourism as an important vehicle for protecting and managing cultural and natural heritage of Outstanding Universal Value.

Objective C: Promote broad stakeholder engagement in the planning, development and management of sustainable tourism that follows a destination approach to heritage conservation and focuses on empowering local communities.

Objective D: Provide World Heritage stakeholders with the capacity and the tools to manage tourism efficiently, responsibly and sustainably based on the local context and needs.

Objective E: Promote quality authentic tourism products and services that encourage responsible behaviour among all stakeholders and foster understanding and appreciation of the concept of Outstanding Universal Value and protection of World Heritage.

9. Outcomes

An outcome is the first effect of the intervention which contributes to the attainment of results. It is a tangible or intangible product deriving from the interventions. In general terms outcomes can be considered as the new knowledge and skills built and disseminated in collaboration with concerned stakeholders.

10. Actions

Actions correspond to the overall objectives of the Programme. The objectives and actions form the overall Programme strategy, and were developed through an inclusive and consultative process. Some actions will require an initial development phase before further implementation. Prioritised actions are marked with an asterisk (*).

11. Activities

The proposed activities follow the actions. Several activities will be cross cutting where working group(s) may be established to address one or more of the issues (e.g. data collection, information sharing, capacity building, etc.) to thereby ensure coherence, synergies and cost efficiency. Activities are cross referenced to demonstrate synergies within the Programme.

12. Timeline

The timeline for the World Heritage and Sustainable Tourism Programme follows the Strategic Action Plan for the Implementation of the World Heritage Convention 2013-2022 (WHC-10/34.COM/5D), with consecutive Action Plans for 2013-2015, 2016-2018 and 2019-2022.

13. Performance indicators

The World Heritage Centre will report on the progress of the Programme implementation to the World Heritage Committee on a biennial basis. Monitoring of the Programme will be conducted according to the Results Based Programming, Management and Monitoring (RBM) approach as applied by UNESCO, where goals and performance indicators will form the basis of the report to the World Heritage Committee on the progress of the Programme implementation. An assessment of the Action Plan 2013-2015 will take place end of 2015.

14. Estimated Budget

The estimated budget for the implementation of the Action Plan 2013 - 2015 is itemized per annum and includes the overall coordination cost for the World Heritage Centre estimated to US$ 330 000 per annum.

Table 1: Stakeholder groups in World Heritage and sustainable tourism and their potential roles

- a) States Parties to the World Heritage Convention develop and implement relevant policy, institutional and legal frameworks for the management of properties.
- b) World Heritage Committee which consists of representatives from 21 of the States Parties to the Convention elected by the General Assembly. The Committee is responsible for the implementation of the World Heritage Convention, defines the use of the World Heritage Fund and allocates financial assistance upon requests from States Parties. It has the final say on whether a property is inscribed on the World Heritage List.
- c) Government agencies at national, regional and local levels hold responsibility in the management of World Heritage properties, tourism management and promotion, local planning and infrastructure, and community and economic development.
- d) Property managers/coordinators are responsible for managing the World Heritage properties including aspects relating to tourism and resources management.
- e) Local communities living at and around the World Heritage properties (including indigenous peoples and minorities). Actions and decisions of local communities can affect the sustainability of the properties. Local communities are involved in both the demand and supply side.
- f) Tourism private sector operators and providers are significant investors in sustainable tourism and have an interest in the development of properties as attractive tourism destinations.
- g) Destination Management Organisations (DMOs) typically undertake marketing activities. However their remit is becoming far broader, increasingly acting strategic leaders in destination development. Destination management calls for a coalition of many organisations and interests working towards a common goal. DMOs role should be to lead and coordinate activities under a coherent strategy.
- h) International agencies, including the World Heritage Committee, the UNESCO World Heritage Centre, Category 2 Centres working under the auspices of UNESCO, UNEP, UNDP, the UN World Tourism Organisation, the World Bank Group and Advisory Bodies such as ICOMOS, IUCN, ICCROM and ICOM. These agencies influence the development of standards and good practices for sustainable tourism management at and around World Heritage properties.
- i) Researchers and academics including organisations part of the UNITWIN/ UNESCO Chairs Programme provide insight on the impact of tourism and may influence management practices and approaches.
- j) Consent authorities may control development at properties and control development in the local area. This can provide facilities for tourism and affect the attractiveness and sustainability of the site.

- k) Civil society and NGOs provide a range of services that potentially support site managers, help local communities benefit from tourism, and influence local planning and national policy formulation.
- l) Funding providers for tourism projects at or near World Heritage properties have the potential to influence the nature of tourism development.
- m) Tourism promoters have the potential to raise awareness of the importance of the heritage of a destination.
