San Millán Yuso and Suso Monasteries

Brief Description
The monastic community founded by St Millán in the mid-6th century became a place of pilgrimage. A fine Romanesque church built in honour of the holy man still stands at the site of Suso. It was here that the first literature was produced in Castilian, from which one of the most widely spoken languages in the world today is derived. In the early 16th century the community was housed in the fine new monastery of Yuso, below the older complex; it is still a thriving community today.

2. Statement of Significance

Inscription Criteria C (ii), (iv), (vi)

Justification provided by the State Party

Since the Vth Century foundation of the monastery by San Millán and his disciples, this setting has been a focus for culture, history and religion firstly for the north of Spain and later for the whole of the country. During the 10th and 11th centuries it was enthusiastically supported by the royal house of Navarre (even becoming the Royal Pantheon) and the Castilian Counts and Kings (Fernan Gonzalez named San Millán patron saint of Spain and the Seven Infantes de Lara were buried here). Monastic life has gone on uninterruptedly in these monasteries from the 6th century until our times.

San Millán's sepulture has been a place of pilgrimage since his death in the 6th century and, when the Way to Compostela became important, pilgrims made the detour to visit it.

From an artistic point of view, SUSO Monastery is a Mozarabic building on a Visigothic base with Romanesque enlargements. The first Esapa ribbed vaults in Spain were built here in the 10th century.

YUSO Monastery is the fruit of two centuries' building activity and in it different styles are combined without disturbing each other. The building also houses numerous works of art, from the 11th Century ivories to the paintings of Rizzi, cast iron work, altarpieces, the library with more than 300 documents from the 11th to the 15th centuries, 4 codices from the 12th and 13th centuries, incunables, etc.

Its archives house the culture, history and daily life of the monastery and the monasteries and churches associated with it throughout a wide area of northern Spain from the early Middle Ages onwards.

But, above all, what makes the San Millan Monasteries' candidacy for recognition by UNESCO as Heritage for Humanity unquestionable is its incorporation of immaterial values. It is its importance in connection with heroic deeds, cultural events of special importance, fundamental spiritual references and its links with a place of immortal legends.

All of this is to be added to San Millan's important material heritage:

* The mentioned emergence of Spain's first stable monastic base.

* The incorporation in western mythology of a saint with a legendary life, San Millán de la Cogolla sharing roles and characteristics with Saint James (Santiago) himself.

* The first written expression of the Romance language which, in an evolved form, we now know as Castilian or Spanish, took place in the dark years of the 11th century, within the walls of San Millán Monastery.

* This tongue became an educated language and so, with the mark of universality, but without any need to change geographical area, the first lyric poet in the Castilian language was born in the valley of San Millán: Gonzalo de Berceo closed the long road to the maturity of the language.

Four historical details which lack tangible expression, but which, along with the Suso and Yuso complex' impressive material presence, help make it perfectly equipped to receive the deserved recognition as a Property of Cultural Interest for Heritage for Humanity.
As provided in ICOMOS evaluation

Qualities: The Suso Monastery is of great cultural interest so far as the early development of monasticism in Europe is concerned, since it represents the transition from an eremitic to a cenobitic community vividly in material terms. The continued survival of the community to the present day in the Yuso Monastery gives a very full picture of the trajectory of European monasticism.

Of great universal associative importance is the fact that the Spanish language, one of the most common in the whole world today, was first written down here, first for didactic purposes and then as a medium of artistic expression.

ICOMOS recommendations for future action

During the course of the ICOMOS expert mission in November 1996, a number of proposals were made to the responsible authorities for modifications and improvements to the nomination, designed to make it conform to the requirements of the World Heritage Committee. These included a revision of the buffer zone around the Suso Monastery and provision for receiving larger numbers of visitors (parking, toilets, information etc) in the event of the property being inscribed on the World Heritage List.

[...] Subsequent to the mission, a detailed supplementary dossier was received, with a larger buffer zone including both monuments (approved by the Council for Education, Culture, Youth and Sports of La Rioja on 30 December 1996) which satisfied the reservations expressed by the ICOMOS mission. A resolution of the Government Council of La Rioja on 5 December 1996 was also provided; this contains a number of directives to specialized Councils (Industry, Tourism, Environment, Urban Planning, and Culture) which dealt with other points raised by the ICOMOS mission, including the provision of tourist facilities and the burying of electrical supply lines and removal of pylons.

Recommendation: That this property will be inscribed on the World Heritage List on the basis of criteria (ii), (iv), and (vi):

The monasteries of Suso and Yuso at San Millán de la Cogolla are exceptional testimony to the introduction and continuous survival of Christian monasticism, from the 6th century to the present day. The property is also of outstanding associative significance as the birthplace of the modern written and spoken Spanish language.
