I. PROGRESS MADE TOWARD THE ORGANIZATION OF THE 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS

A. Background

1. The 40th anniversary year was launched on 7 November 2011 at the 18th General Assembly of States Parties to the Convention by the Director-General who underlined on this occasion the importance of this opportunity for the international community involved in cultural and natural heritage conservation to reflect on the achievements of the Convention to date as well as to respond to the challenges with which it is confronted.

2. The theme of the anniversary is “World Heritage and Sustainable Development: the Role of Local Communities”. By focusing on this theme, States Parties decided to reflect on policies and procedures on how to mainstream sustainable development into the processes of the World Heritage Convention while improving social and economic conditions of local communities.

3. Decision 35 COM 12D point 5 encouraged States Parties to develop, support and carry out activities to promote the anniversary and to notify the World Heritage Centre of their intentions to host events to celebrate the 40th anniversary. A considerable number of activities, conferences, thematic workshops, celebrations and general public events have taken place throughout the world since the launch of the anniversary or are planned until November 2012. The coordination of the celebration activities is undertaken by the World Heritage Centre in collaboration with States Parties to the Convention, UNESCO Field Offices, Advisory Bodies, UNESCO Category 2 Centres dedicated to World Heritage, partners and major conservation NGOs.

Government, both as direct organizer as well as through a Japan Funds-in-Trust (JFiT) allocation to the World Heritage Centre.

8. The event will present the year’s activities and conclusions drawn from the related regional and thematic events. Reflecting upon the founding spirit of the Convention, as well as its achievements and its evolution over the last forty years, the event is also expected to discuss the significance of World Heritage to humankind today. The agenda will include a series of panel discussions on specific contemporary concerns with a particular focus on the role of communities, such as sustainable social and economic development, sustainable tourism, disaster prevention and recovery, international cooperation and public and private partnerships. Approximately 600 participants from around the world are expected. A youth programme is also scheduled, preceding the main event. The outcome of the youth programme will be shared at the main event.

D. Communication

9. A series of communication components have been developed by the World Heritage Centre to promote the anniversary year and to assist States Parties in their celebratory activities: a) dedicated web pages on the World Heritage Centre’s website launched on November 2011; b) a brochure on the 40 years of the Convention; c) a special edition of the 2012 World Heritage Desk Diary; d) commemorative pins; e) a new edition of the Harper Collins/UNESCO co-publication “The World’s Heritage”; f) special focus articles in World Heritage magazine throughout 2012; g) a flyer for fundraising. A number of States Parties have translated or are currently translating the 40th anniversary brochure and/or the World Heritage Map into their national languages.

10. A 200-page publication in English and French is in preparation thanks to the JFiT, to be launched at the closing event in Kyoto. It will focus on the main theme of the anniversary and will include over 20 case studies from World Heritage sites.

11. A specific logo was created in order to ensure increased visibility and awareness of the anniversary year. Guidelines were set up for the regulation of its use and States Parties were encouraged to display the logo during official and related events and for their communication related to the anniversary. The World Heritage Centre has approved a large number of requests for use of this logo by States Parties and organisations.

12. The 40th anniversary of the Convention and/or related events were mentioned in articles or interviews, among others, in the following publications (in print or online): the International Herald Tribune, Le Figaro, Le Nouvel Observateur, Japan Times, La Tribune Online, Financial Times, The New York Times, The Economist, Asahi Shimbun, Correio Braziliense, GEO magazine. A video and press statement by the Secretary of State of the United States was released on 16 March 2012. A 110-minute programme of the French television documentary series “Des racines et des ailes” was dedicated entirely to “40 years of World Heritage”, broadcasted on the France 3 television network and rebroadcasted on TV5 with an audience of 3.2 million viewers on 15 February 2012. A photo exhibit was organized by the G-77 & China from 7 to 10 November 2011 at UNESCO Headquarters celebrating the 40th anniversary.

II. ONE-OFF INITIATIVE TO RECOGNIZE AND REWARD BEST PRACTICES IN WORLD HERITAGE CONSERVATION AND ESTABLISHMENT OF A SITE MANAGEMENT NETWORK

A. One-off initiative to recognize and reward best practices in World Heritage conservation

14. Decision 35 COM 12D point 7 requested “the World Heritage Centre, with the support of the Advisory Bodies, to develop, for further consideration the proposal contained in Document WHC-11/35.COM/12D on the establishment of a Site Management Network to facilitate exchange and sharing of information on best practice heritage management and further to explore ways of recognizing and rewarding best practice through a one-off initiative at the closing event of the 40th anniversary of the World Heritage Convention (November 2012, Japan)” and also requested the World Heritage Centre “to seek extrabudgetary funding to secure the necessary resources and technical support”.

15. Subsequently, on 15 December 2011 the Director of the World Heritage Centre invited States Parties to the World Heritage Convention to participate in this initiative by proposing World Heritage properties in their country that they regard as an example of successful and sustainable management. In order to be eligible for this initiative, the submission had to concern a World Heritage site and successful and sustainable management had to be clearly demonstrated. Best practices were considered those that are tried, tested and applied in different situations and in a wider context. Furthermore they needed to be an outstanding example of innovative management in dealing with one or more management challenges and/or issues that could offer lessons to other sites.

16. A selection committee, composed of experts proposed by the regional groups, representatives of the Advisory Bodies and the World Heritage Centre, will examine the submissions and select those entries that best demonstrate successful and sustainable management. To the extent possible, according to the submissions received, geographical representation and diversity in management examples will be taken into account when deciding on the best practices.

17. A representative of the selected World Heritage properties will be invited to attend the closing event of the 40th anniversary in Kyoto, Japan, and will be presented with a certificate of recognition. The selected best practices will be shared through the World Heritage Convention website and widely promoted through World Heritage Centre communication materials.
18. By the end of April 2012, a total number of 28 submissions were received (8 from natural sites and 20 from cultural sites. By region: 2 from Africa, 1 from Arab States, 8 from Asia and Pacific, 11 from Europe and North America and 6 from Latin America and Caribbean).

B. Establishment of a site management network

19. Initial steps were made towards the establishment of a site management network with the goal to facilitate exchange and sharing of information on best practices in World Heritage management. Several networks are already operational, such as the marine World Heritage site managers’ network, the Organization of World Heritage cities, and networks set up for Periodic Reporting. While these networks should continue to be used, reflections are ongoing about setting up a new management network which would need to have a clear added value. The creation of a new network would have also financial implications as it will need hosting, development and maintenance.
