9. INFORMATION ON THE KINGDOM OF CAMBODIA

The Kingdom of Cambodia, formerly known as Kampuchea, derived its name from the Sanskrit word Kambujadesa.

Cambodia is situated in the heart of Southeast Asia, covering an area of 181,035 square kilometers. Cambodia is located in the tropical zone and it shares borders with Thailand, Laos, Vietnam and the Bay of Cambodia in the Gulf of Thailand.

Water is present everywhere, in particular the Tonle Sap Lake, and the Mekong River which flows through the country from north to south.

The Tonle Sap Lake is the largest lake in Southeast Asia. The water level fluctuates with the seasons and during the monsoon, the area of the lake can increase to three or four times its usual size due to the reversing current and the exchange of water with the Mekong.

The Mekong River is over 4000 km long, and it originates from Tibet and flows through China, Myanmar, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia and finally reaches the sea in Vietnam.

Minerals, as well as oil and natural gas fields have been discovered in Cambodian waters. The potential revenue could contribute significantly to the economic growth of Cambodia in the future.

Population

Cambodia has a population of more than 14 million, ninety percent of whom are of Khmer origin. The rest of the population is of Chinese, Cham (Muslim, or ‘Khmer Islam’) or Vietnamese origin, as well as indigenous peoples (Phnong, Kouy, Stieng, Tampuon, etc.) in the highlands. The Chinese influence can be felt in the cities and the financial and industrial sector. The population density is 78 persons per square kilometer.

Climate

The climate in Cambodia is warm and humid throughout most of the year. The climate is dominated by the annual monsoon cycle with its alternating wet and dry seasons. The wet season lasts from May to October, while the dry season lasts from November to April. The months of December and January are the coolest with an average temperature of 27-28 degrees (compared to more than 35 degrees around April, when it gets very hot).
The heavy monsoon rains last for only a short while, and occur mostly during the evenings and nights. The rains will not stop you from enjoying the wonders of the country.

Introduction to Phnom Penh

Phnom Penh, once called the “Pearl of Asia”, is both the capital and the largest city of Cambodia. Currently, it is an important political, economic, touristic, commercial and cultural center.

Visitors can enjoy the Cambodian thirst for life in the busy city of more than two million inhabitants. Cambodians are naturally open, warm and kind people. In Phnom Penh, people are enterprising and the city is in a constant state of change.

Phnom Penh has a rich urban heritage, dating from colonial times and buildings as well as buildings from a unique new wave of construction in the 1960s known as “New Khmer Architecture”, an important, modernist movement in Asia. Nowadays, skyscrapers pierce the skyline, with a business center rising thirty floors high. Numerous hotels of all kinds are also developing in the city.

The river banks are full of chic cafes, restaurants and shops. The Cambodian Ministry of Tourism website will provide you with many examples at the following address: http://www.tourismcambodia.org/company/index.php?pccat=3&prv=15#comp

Shops that sell silk products and art galleries can be found on the adjacent streets. The artistic scene is developing fast and there is a thriving night life.

The exchange rate in relation to the euro and US dollar fluctuate slightly, but are roughly: 1 EUR = 5500 Riel and 1 USD = 4100 Riel. The dollar is the most common currency used by foreigners. Money may be exchanged in all foreign exchange offices or banks, which are widespread in the city centre. A large number of ATMs are available 24/7 and 7/7. Credit cards are widely accepted in larger restaurants and hotels, but not in small shops or market places.

The consumption of alcoholic drinks is strictly forbidden for the driver of the car.

It is not expensive to rent a car, but it is recommended to hire a driver for convenience and safety reasons, traffic can be hectic during rush hour.
