- Question 6.02

The Heritage Conservation Act (1988:950) Is the central legislation in Sweden concerning historic landscape and cultural heritage. The Act opens in Chapter 1 with emphasizing how the care and preservation of our cultural environment is a matter of national concern. Chapter 4 concerns "Ecclesiastical cultural heritage property". Regarding Skogskyrkogården, sections 11-15 provides for the care of cemeteries, stressing upon that "cemeteries shall be cared for and maintained in such a way that their cultural historic value is not reduced or debased." All cemeteries laid out before the end of 1939 are automatically protected by the Heritage Conservation Act. If the National Heritage Board so decides, a cemetery laid out after the end of 1939 will be included by the protection. Permission must be obtained from the County Administrative Board whenever major changes are planned on these protected cemeteries. Act of Burials (1990:1144) Act of Burials concerns the fundamental responsibility society has to provide efficient burial and cremation services (funeral activities/burial administration). Chapter 7 "Title to a grave" section 37, describes the responsibility of the Cemeteries Board or the Parish to preserve gravestones with cultural heritage value. The Planning and Building Act (1987:10) In the Stockholm City Plan 1999, Skogskyrkogården is defined as a Special Heritage Area and as a Park with Special Conservation Value. By protected areas nearby the site, a buffer zone is also included in the City Plan. That means that these definitions made in the comprehensive plan for Stockholm are guiding principles to any matter of planning, regulated by The Planning and Building Act. Chapter 3 sections 10-13 in the Act also regulate buildings with cultural heritage value. The Environmental Code (1998:808) Skogskyrkogården is defined as an Area of National Interest, which means that chapter 3 section 6 in The Environmental Code, protects and regulates any planning in or nearby the site.

Comment
